You guys would probably have more luck with this than I would if you have any interest in passing along the invitation.

Subject: Contacting Mayor Garcetti: Invitation to speak on inclusive growth in global cities | The London Conference 2017 | 16 November

Hi Nick,

Hope all's well. Cant believe a year has gone already since I was in LA. Looks like DTKA is going from strength to strength. Getting in touch as wondering if you could help Centre for London reach out to Mayor Garcetti.

We are trying to get a speaker request to Mayor Garcetti for Centre for London's flagship annual conference in November (see below and attached for more detail).

I believe we have sent to and Director of Comms Naomi Seligman and to PA, but if there is anyone you could give a nudge, or whom you suggest we also contact, do let me know.

Thanks Nick,

Kat

Dear Mayor Garcetti,

I am writing to invite you to speak on inclusive growth at The London Conference 2017, which takes place on Thursday 16 November at Savoy Place, London. I attach a letter from the Director of Centre for London, Ben Rogers, with further details.

Now in its seventh year, The London Conference is an opportunity for city, civic and business leaders to come together and set the agenda for London in the coming year.

Previous speakers include Mayor of London Sadiq Khan, Deputy Mayor for NYC Alicia Glen, and urban experts Richard Florida, Ben Barber, and Janette Sadik Khan. The Conference consistently receives print, digital and television coverage, with last year's hashtag trending nationwide on Twitter.

This year's conference will be focusing on inclusive growth in global cities. In times of national economic and political turmoil, how can global cities remain prosperous, inclusive and thriving?

We would be delighted to provide you with a platform to share your successes as Mayor of Los Angeles, and speak about the initiatives you've put in place, such as increasing the minimum wage, the Sustainable City pLAn, and Great Streets.

We would also be happy to arrange meetings and events whilst you are in town with the Mayor of London and his team, as well as key people who delivered the 2012 Olympic Games (including our own Research Director, Richard Brown, who served as Director of Strategy at the London Games).

I do hope you can join us - we know you'd be fantastic.

Best wishes,

-Kate Spiliopoulos
